

1 Introduction and advantages	9 – 12
1.1 Quality
1.2 Application
1.3 Economic aspects
2 White and red wine processing	13–18
2.1 Improved filtration performance through application of specific enzymes
2.2 Wine treatment: influencing factors for filterability
3 Flow diagram for wine production	19–22
4 Clarifying/fine and membrane filtration in wine production	23–26
4.1 Clarifying filtration
4.2 Fine filtration
4.3 Membrane filtration
4.4 Proven filter cartridge combinations for bottling operations
5 Flow diagram for sparkling wine production	27–30
6 Clarifying/fine and membrane filtration in sparkling wine production	31–34
6.1 Clarifying filtration
6.2 Fine filtration
6.3 Membrane filtration
7 Filtration of utilities	35–38
8 Differences between membrane and depth filter cartridges	39–42
8.1 Configuration
8.2 Differences between the two filter cartridge types
8.2.1 Features
8.2.2 Testing options
9 Filter sizing taking into account flow rates and differential pressures	43–46
9.1 Filter sizing
9.2 Differential pressures
9.2.1 Maximum differential pressure
9.2.2 Initial differential pressure
9.2.3 Final differential pressure
10 Regeneration	47–50
10.1 Cleaning with cold and hot water
10.2 Chemical cleaning
10.3 Enzymatic cleaning
10.4 Acid cleaning
11 Preservation and storage	51–54
12 Chemical resistance of the materials	55–58

13 Sterilisation/Disinfection	59–62
13.1 Steam sterilisation
13.2 Hot water sterilisation
13.3 Disinfection
14 Integrity testing for membrane filter cartridges	63–66
14.1 Procedure
14.2 Integrity test
15 Failed integrity test	67–70
15.1 Causes and actions
15.2 Submerge test
16 Integrity testers	71–74
17 Premature filter cartridge blocking: causes and troubleshooting	75–78
18 Determination of filterability via index measurement	79–82
18.1 Measurement
18.2 Classification of filterability
19 Filter cartridge housings and filtration systems	83–88
19.1 Filter cartridge housings for liquids
19.2 Filter cartridge housings for utilities
19.2.1 Compressed gas filter housings
19.2.2 Venting/compressed gas filter housings for very small quantities
19.3 Automatic filtration systems
19.3.1 Fine filtration systems
19.3.2 Membrane filtration systems
20 Overview of adapter codes	89–92
21 BECO filter cartridge range	93–100
21.1 Overview
21.2 Characteristics
22 Troubleshooting	101–103
